"Ecological psychology" is a term claimed by several schools of psychology with the main one involving the work of James J. Gibson and his associates, and another one the work of Roger G. Barker, Herb Wright and associates at the University of Kansas in Lawrence. Whereas Gibsonian psychology is always termed "ecological psychology", the work of Barker (and his followers) is also sometimes ...

Character displacement is the phenomenon where differences among similar species whose distributions overlap geographically are accentuated in regions where the species co-occur, but are minimized or lost where the species' distributions do not overlap. This pattern results from evolutionary change driven by biological competition among species for a limited resource (e.g. food).

If you want more data on life support than you know what to do with, try reading this NASA document. Otherwise, read on. For some great notes on spacecraft life support, read Rick Robinson's Rocketpunk Manifesto essay.. As a very rough general rule: one human will need an amount of mass/volume equal to his berthing space for three months of consumables (water, air, food).
